

MEMBER CENTER: Create Account | Log In

- Home
- News
- Weather
- Sports
- FOOTBALL FRIDAY NIGHT
- Community
- TalkBack 5
- As Seen on 5
- Programming
- Classifieds
- Lifestyle
- About Us
- LOCAL Market PLACE
- Congregation Connection
- Finance
- Food & Entertainment
- Health
- Home & Garden
- INTERACTIVE DIRECTORY
- Legal Minute
- Travel
- Weddings & Relations

Ark. court hears arguments on payday lending law

Associated Press - October 30, 2008 12:54 PM ET

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - Attorneys told the state Supreme Court today that a 1999 Arkansas law opened the door for payday lenders to charge triple-digit interest rates in violation of the constitution.

Opponents of the payday lending industry asked the Arkansas Supreme Court to strike down the 1999 Check Cashers Act, which they say allows payday lenders to make consumer loans with interest rates of more than 17% annually.

Today's hearing marked the third time the challenge to the law has come before the state's highest court. A Pulaski County judge last year ruled that the act was constitutional after justices sent the case back to his court without ruling on the law itself.

The act is being challenged as the number of payday lenders in the state has dwindled in response to threats of lawsuits from the state's top attorney. An advocacy group said in a report this month that the number of payday lenders operating in the state has dropped from 237 in March to just 33

This weekend at the movies

- Zack and Miri
- Haunting of Molly Hartley
- Splinter
- The Other End of the Line
- Watch more trailers!

following the cease-or-desist letters sent by Attorney General Dustin McDaniel.

McDaniel told the firms that their high-interest loans violated the usury limits of Arkansas' constitution and demanded that the firms stop issuing high-interest loans and forgive any outstanding debts.

An attorney for the Arkansas State Board of Collection Agencies, which regulates the industry, said the act does not condone unconstitutional interest rates and noted that firms have been sued for charging high interest.

Copyright 2008 The Associated Press. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redistributed.

Northwest Arkansas News more>>

New Wal-Mart store design unveiled in Rogers

Halloween sales up despite scary economy

John Daly sobers up in jail after Hooters incident

Gas prices at \$2 a gallon in NW Arkansas

Hollywood actors for Obama stop in Northwest Arkansas

River Valley News more>>

Fort Smith cable TV moving religious channels, mayor upset

Election officials remind public about polling policies

Closing arguments set to begin in elderly man's murder trial in Greenwood

Fort Smith bomb squad source of loud booming noises

Murder trial continues for 85-year-old accused of cutting wife's throat

SPONSORED LINKS

"2008 Diet of the Year"

How I lost 44 lbs in 30 Days without a Diet! As seen on CNN, Fox & MSN
www.OneWomensBlog.com

Solar Stock Pick - EVSO

Emerging Green Energy Co. Growth Stock Investment
EvolutionSolar.com

Teeth Whiteners Face-Off

We reviewed top teeth whiteners. You'll be shocked at what we...
Top-Teeth-Whitening-Reviews.com

Dr Phil's IQ = 127

Are you Smarter than Dr Phil? Take Our IQ Test Now!
www.Celebrity-IQ-Quiz.com

Alternative to Open Back Surgery!

Gentle Arthroscopic Solutions For Back & Neck Pain
www.laserspineinstitute.com

All content © Copyright 2001 - 2008 WorldNow and KFSM. All Rights Reserved.
For more information on this site, please read our Privacy Policy and Terms of Service.